

Make it a Beautiful Holiday

November 2008

Okay, Campers! Has ANYBODY started thinking about the Holidays, yet? I went for my weekly trek to Costco and guess what I saw?

You got it! TWO Christmas trees! We have just finished Halloween and haven't reached Thanksgiving yet. They also had gifts, lights, the whole works. It's sunny and beautiful outside (and we are not in Florida!!) The only thing they left out is....SNOW.

So, there I am, in a sleeveless shirt because it really, very hot out. I go inside, feel the air-conditioning and see row upon row of sweaters, down vests, winter coats, Sherpa lined boots, and heavy-duty rubber rain boots. And that is for the adults. All I want to purchase is more sun block because the sun is blaring down on me, and I'll just burn and peel! My mind could not wrap itself around the idea that soon, I'll be marching through two feet of slush and snow.

Try it. Go into a major department store and see if you don't go into a time warp. It's not summer in there, or fall. Not even close.

Truly, I don't even want to think about it. I just want to enjoy this beautiful weather.

SO... (and here is my personal plug ☺) If you do start to think about gifts, please contact me. Know why? There is a whole new line that came out, for the holidays, which is GORGEOUS! I am not kidding. You don't even have to wrap the boxes to make them look pretty. All you would have to do is add a ribbon. That is how beautiful the packaging is. And the product itself? Really, you have to sample the fragrances; it's that wonderful.

My mission is to "pay it forward". If you decide to become a retail client, please type in your favorite charity on the "middle name" entry, while registering. I will send 100% of the retail profit, from the sale, to that charity.
